Profile

Passionate self-taught front-end developer.

Before I have decided to change my career, I worked as a recruiter in IT companies. Mostly outsource with clients from European countries, United States and Israel. This experience gave me good knowledge of different methods and approaches to engineering, understanding clients' needs, task prioritizing, and team work. Now I would like to grow and develop as a Front-end developer. I am deeply convinced that the acquired skills and the tech knowledge I am mastering every day will help me in the developer's approach to IT.
